

Ophthalmologist

Here at the Small Animal Specialist Hospital (SASH), we are lucky enough to be located in North Ryde in beautiful Sydney, Australia. We are a large multi-disciplinary veterinary referral hospital with an excellent reputation for providing the highest level of quality health care service to our patients. We have a wide range of specialist clinical services including a 24 hour emergency service, specialist emergency and critical care, anaesthesia, internal medicine, neurology, surgery, oncology and radiation oncology, ophthalmology, dermatology, radiology and avian and exotics.

The practice has access to in house laboratory facilities, CT, endoscopy, laparoscopy, ventilators, digital radiology, fluoroscopy, High-Field MRI, ultrasound and a linear accelerator with stereotactic capability all on-site as well as a dedicated ICU.

We are seeking an Ophthalmologist to join our growing team! The service currently comprises four specialists. You will be well-supported by our dedicated ophthalmology nurses as well as ancillary staff for general patient care and anaesthesia. The team is well-equipped with all the necessary tools for veterinary ophthalmology, including Kowa and Keeler slit lamps, Keeler indirect ophthalmoscopes, Acrivet ERG units, tonopen and tonovet, Volk lenses, Zeiss operating microscopes, Alcon Legacy and AMO signature phacoemulsification units, diode laser, ultrasound biomicroscopy and Philips ultrasound units and an array of microsurgical instruments! We are also one of the few hospitals in the country offering gonio-implantation for management of glaucoma.

We can offer you a competitive remuneration package, the complete cover of the cost of sponsorship (if required), relocation allowance where applicable, a work life balance, a generous annual continuing education allowance, ongoing learning and development opportunities and more!

All we ask is that you are motivated, committed to patient care, have a sense of humour and share our vision for a working environment where we all collaborate on patient care, and where referring veterinarians and pet owners receive personal and attentive service.

Don't miss this great opportunity and apply today by sending your resume to Human Resources; Lauren Cook at employment@sashvets.com.

We look forward to seeing you on the sandy shores of the beautiful Sydney beaches very soon!
