

Residency In Veterinary Ophthalmology at South Devon Referrals, United Kingdom.

South Devon Referrals is inviting applications from qualified veterinary surgeons for a three-year ophthalmology residency training program. This program will begin January 7th 2019 with the primary aim of training a Veterinary Ophthalmologist and preparing them for the European College of Veterinary Ophthalmology (ECVO) qualifying examination.

South Devon Referrals is situated just outside Exeter in South Devon, close to the coast and Dartmoor. The practice is housed in new purpose-built facilities and sees a wide range of small animal, exotic and equine patients suitable for case exposure to fulfil the ECVO requirements. The successful candidate would be expected to take responsibility for inpatients, a clinical caseload (medical and surgical cases) and a proportion of on call.

Applicants must

- Be a member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, or eligible for membership.
- Hold a UK recognised veterinary qualification.
- Have clinical experience as a first opinion veterinary surgeon.
- Have a good command of the English language. This is imperative to be able to function in clinical situations and interact with staff members and clients.
- Have started the application process with or already hold approval from the Credential Committee of the ECVO for residency status.

In order to apply for this position please submit:-

- A personal statements describing your clinical background, reasons for applying for the residency and your career goals.
- Current curriculum vitae.
- Two letters of recommendation from senior colleagues, university staff or practitioners who worked directly with the candidate. The letter should detail previous clinical responsibilities, aptitude and performance in clinical situations, ability to communicate and work with others and aptitude in examination. The letter should be sent directly to South Devon Referrals by the letter writer, and should not be forwarded by the applicant.

Applications must be received by 8th October 2018

Applications should be sent to:
