

The Ophthalmology department of the Veterinary teaching Hospital of Alfort (France) invites applications for a full-time (12 months) clinician position in Veterinary Ophthalmology. The hospital is located inside the Alfort veterinary school, south-west area of Paris.

The established team consists of 2 ECVO board certified ophthalmologists, 1 full-time specialized intern, 1 full-time junior clinician, 1 full-time technician and 1 receptionist. Our service is fully equipped and offers all state of the art treatments. The caseload is comprised predominantly of small animal and equine cases with additional food animal and exotic cases. Clinical duties require flexible working hours that may include daytime and weekend responsibilities.

Ideally the candidate is already specialized in ophthalmology (board certified or national specialization) or has a confirmed experience in ophthalmology and an interest in academic work. He or she should have the ability to work cooperatively with all of the Hospital medical departments. Active participation in clinical research as well as preparing scientific publications is expected.

Salary, rank and title will be commensurate with academic credentials and experience. Speaking the French language is necessary.
